Royal Tyran Navy Rum

Royal Tyran Navy Rum is produced in accordance with the Coalition of Ordered Governments Admiralty Regulations and Specifications for Navy Issue Rum. These Regulations were set forth in the Tyran capital of Ephyra long before the outbreak of the Pendulum Wars.

Royal Tyran Navy Rum has served our sailors since their days aboard ships on the line during the epic sea battles of the Age of Armageddon, during the peaceful years of the Golden Age, and to naval operations during the current Pendulum Wars.

"Navy Rum" is not just a name for dark rum. Originally it was the name of a specific type of rum distilled for the Admiralty in wooden pot stills in lieu of the normal metal ones. The distillation of rum in wood imparts a truly unique flavor that can only be described as "full and rich," making most others bland by comparison. This flavor is unique to the wooden process, and cannot be duplicated from any other type of distillation; interestingly Royal Tyran Navy Rum is still distilled in the same original Admiralty stills. Rum that is not distilled in wood cannot achieve the unique flavor of a real Navy Rum.
